The Modern Cajon Ensemble

For music lovers of all ages, Len Barnett presents the Modern Cajon Jazz Ensemble, founded in 2018 to introduce percussion-driven jazz to Dallas area audiences. The ensemble takes its name from a Cuban/Latin American drum called a cajon, a box drum, used in traditional and contemporary Afro-Cubano music. The ensemble features some of Dallas's most exciting jazz artists, playing music that explores a wide range of percussive sound ranging from the traditional (piano and drum) to the wildly unusual (gas pipe and Brazilian berimbau.) The Modern Cajon Jazz Ensemble plays events large and small: from background jazz at receptions, such as gallery openings at the Bath House Cultural Center, to small ensemble concerts for luncheons, conferences and client appreciation events (notably, the Love Field Airport Entertainment Series) to full ensemble concerts such as the Dallas Museum of Art Thursday Nights Jazz Series and the Arts in the Parks series.
